AAPL Lifetime Achievement Award – submitted by DAPL

The Dallas Association of Petroleum Landmen is extremely honored to nominate longtime AAPL member, Iris Bradley, CPL/ESA, for AAPL's Lifetime Achievement Award.

Over the course of her career, Iris has been instrumental in the development of not only our profession, but also countless landmen she has mentored over the years. Being one of the first females to establish a career as a Landman has been an inspiration to women nationwide who have followed in her footsteps in a traditionally male-dominated role.

A trailblazer to be sure, Iris was officially recognized for her tireless contributions to our industry with the Blakenship Family Horizon Award at the 2023 AAPL Annual Meeting in Huntington Beach, California.

It seems as if every time you see Iris, she is volunteering her personal time to others. Iris has served multiple 3-year terms on DAPL's Board of Directors as President, AAPL Director, Sergeant-at-Arms, and most recently, as a Special Advisor. She has chaired numerous AAPL committees over the years, including Awards Committee, Certification Committee, Environmental Committee, Ethics Committee, Industry Affairs Committee and Publications Committee.

Iris started her career in 1976 with Hunt Oil Company learning the ins and outs of the business under James Beavers and has worked her way through multiple leadership roles with operators and banking institutions alike. She is currently Executive Director - Regional Mineral Management at JPMorgan Chase Private Bank.

Prior to joining JPMorgan, Iris was Vice President at Northern Trust, and before that she was a Senior Landman with Merit Energy Company. Iris has worked in a multitude of basins, including the Permian, Barnett Shale, Haynesville Shale and the Rockies.

Iris is a graduate of Southern Methodist University with a degree in Journalism. She is active in Highland Park United Methodist Church, has served two (2) terms as President of the Highland Park Alumni Association, and has served on the PwC SMU Athletic Forum Board of Directors for many years.

Iris is the proud mother to Susan Gleiser, a 2011 graduate of Vanderbilt University. She resides no further than 5 miles from where she was born, in University Park with her husband, Floy Stanley.
